kept Sullivan from scoring on a some what similar play.

Shumann Not So Much.

With the exception of Mike's wild pitch and his error, the boy pitched a good game, and the big fellow, Shumann, who shut out the locals in his home town several days ago, proved a much easier proposition than was expected, and really had nothing on the local pellet-pusher. It was more the men behind Shumann who won the game than the twirler, for they hit at more opportune times and fielded better than Richmond. An illustration of the hard luck and poor ability of the Colts to hit the ball into safe territory at opportune times came in the unlucky seventh. After Siebrie had pasted a long drive to centrefield fence for three bags, Kirk fell down for the third time and filed to short, and Siebrie himself was caught appling off third by a lightning throw by Shumann. Shaffer then fanned and all hopes of the locals winning were squelched until the eighth, when Cowan started things by singling to centre. He was forced at second by Cassidy, and the next two were easy outs.

There was but one other time that Richmond had a chance, but that was hither sixth inning the school of University that the trouble began, when he was struck it the trouble began, when he was struck it the trouble began, when he was struck it the trouble began, when he was struck bind. Not only was he of in his decisions, but in trying to even up he made matters worse. The winning that the rouble began, when he was struck it the trouble began, when he was struck the trouble began, when he was struck it the trouble began, when he

There was but one other time that Richmond had a chance, but that was killed by a pure piece of robbery when, after Heffron had secured his second hit, Martin pulled in a liner way over his head a nddoubled the left-fielder at the initial sack. Siebric was hit, but Kirk again went out, this time an easy one from pitcher to first, and the game was over.

Richmond crossed in the second and fourth. Stebrie landed when Butman booted Burns's assist, after missing the strikeout. Shumann then tried to catch the runner napping, and threw into the right-field bleachers, Slebrie going to third, from where he was secred on Shaffer's heautiful suicide. Heff led off in the fourth with his first hit, went to second when Wallace followed suit, and when Wallace held, advancing both runners. Had Heffron had better coaching on third he might easily have made home. Siebrie then sacrified, and Heff crossed. Kirk fanned, and Shaffer went out, second to first. The score:

FOR THE COLTS NORFOLK WINS; JUMPS TO FRONT

ISpecial to The Times-Dispatch, I NROFOLK, VA., June 21.—Danville's disastrous efforts at the bit and run game, and Fox's foxy work in the box for Norfolk this afternoon, gave the home team a 4 to 1 victory over the visitors.

The Tercentennials invariably got in a double play when the hit and run effort was made, Danville lost several chances to score. The locals' scoring resulted from the bunching of hits, coupled with an element of luck. Attempted sacrifices by Danville also proved disastrous, Cumming's excusable error on a long fly from Henn to right, saved Danville from a shutout. This was followed by a single by Powell.
